In response to letter of inquiry dated September 17, 2014 regarding the July quarterly report:

C. Finley McRae and Charles F. McRae, Jr. are father and son with similar names and the same address. Each made a contribution in their own name.

SECRETARY OF THE SENATE
14 OCT 23 AM 10:22

Of the hundreds of contributions we received during the 48 hour reporting period we failed to file a 48 hour notice on a contribution from New Republican Majority Fund dated 6-13-14 in the amount of $2500.00, James E. Smith dated 6-13-14 in the amount of $1,000.00, Ingram Barge PAC dated 6-10-14 in the amount of $1,000.00

Competitive Carriers Assn PAC and Rural Cellular Assn PAC are the same. This contribution was reported on the 48 hr notice as Rural Cellular Assn PAC because that is the name on the check. The name of PAC is now Competitive Carriers Assn PAC and contribution was reported from Competitive Carriers Assn PAC in the FEC report.

William Hoagland contribution was mistakenly reported on the 48 hour notice as contribution from Rosalind Hoagland. They are husband and wife.

Andrew Kellum's contribution was included on 48 hour notice dated 6-19-14.

We failed to report one contribution from Lawrence L. Jones, II that we filed a 48 hour notice on. We will file an amended report to include the contribution.

We reported a contribution from Citizens Organized PAC that was never received by the committee. It was a case of a similar name that caused the confusion. We will be filing an amended report to remove this over-reported contribution.

We received contributions after the runoff election that were designated to Runoff debts. We won the runoff by almost 8000 votes but the election was challenged by our opponent. We had cash in our General Election account but that cash was restricted until we were declared the winner and the party's nominee for the general election by the Republican Executive Committee. During this time we had substantially more debts than we had cash carried over from the primary and runoff and received the contributions designated to debt.
